SALES COPY SPLIT TEST A

HEADLINE:

Can We Sell You Our Web Design Service With An Ugly Looking Website Like This?

Dear Internet Stranger,

You're probably wondering why a company that wants to design ‘beautiful’ websites for other businesses is trying to sell you its services with a website that looks like this.

Naturally, you'd expect us to show off a stunning website of our own.

Something with beautiful animations, fancy effects, and enough visual magic to make you say:

"Yep. These guys know what they're doing."

But instead, you're looking at this ugly looking website and you're probably wondering whether we've lost our minds.

Fair enough. Lol.

If I were looking for a web designer myself, I'd probably raise an eyebrow, too.

But here’s the thing…

We're not asking you to hire us based on this page alone.

We'll show you actual websites we've built so you can judge the quality of our work for yourself.

And yes, those websites look considerably better than this one. 😂

But before you run off to find someone with a prettier website and risk spending your money on a website that looks seksy but does little for your business…

Can we talk for a minute?

3mins, that’s all.

(testimonials)

First, a question….

When you pay someone to build you a professional looking website for your business, what exactly are you paying for?

Are you paying for just a beautiful design?

A collection of pages with your logo and pictures on them?

Something impressive enough to show your friends?

Maybe you are paying for something that actually serves a purpose in your business?

Or Let me guess…

You want a website that not only looks professional but also adds real value to your business

Whether that value means increasing your visibility, attracting more customers, generating sales or even elevating your brand's prestige.

But ofcourse, your website should look good!

Nobody wants to send potential customers to a website that looks like it was built by 7 year olds as a summer school project.

Sheeesh. I get that…

Infact, a professional-looking website can make a great first impression, help people take your business seriously and give potential customers more confidence in what you're offering.

But here's the thing…

A website that looks good and is actually useful to your business aren't the same thing.

This is where a lot of business owners are being misled.

Most web designers advertise building a sesky looking website that looks professional for your business.

But guess what?

There's a graveyard full of dead websites that once upon a time, they looked professional but were never renewed after the first year because…

A beautiful, professional looking website can still become a bloooody expense.

And here's where I believe some web designers miss the point.

They know how to make a website look good. I mean, beyond the colours, animations, beautiful layouts, and fancy effects…

They don't always stop to ask what the business actually needs that website to do.

Things like…

What are you trying to achieve with the website?

Who are you trying to reach?

And how should the website help potential customers understand what you offer and decide whether they want to do business with you?

These questions matter, too.

But the problem is that some web designers have the technical skills to build you a website but lack the business sense to ask these questions before they start building.

They'll happily discuss your preferred colours, the kind of layout you want, the animations you'd like to see, and how beautiful you want the finished website to look.

And there's nothing wrong with that.

But guess what?

Knowing how to design a beautiful website and understanding what makes a website useful to a business are two different things.

Now, does this mean that simply asking the right questions will magically make your website bring in more customers?

Of course not!

Obviously, a website isn't a magic wand from Harry Porter.

Simply paying us to build you one doesn't automatically increase your visibility, attract more customers, generate sales or even elevate your brand's prestige.

Infact, if anyone promises you guaranteed sales just because you have a website, it's a big friggin red flag.

There. I said it.

Listen, the point isn't that a website will magically grow your business.

It's that if you're going to invest in one, you should have a clear idea of what you want it to help you achieve.

Because the goal isn't to own a website.

The goal is to have something useful for your business.

Something that presents your business professionally while making it easier for potential customers to understand what you offer and take the next step.

And that's the kind of website we've been building for clients all over the planet

(Testimonials)

"But Do I Really Need a Website?"

Honestly? Not necessarily.

Not every business needs a website immediately.

I mean, If your current setup is working perfectly for your business, you might not need to change anything today.

We're not here to convince every business owner on the internet to pay for a website they don't need…

Especially when it’s something you might not have considered necessary until now.

But consider a few things right now my dear business owner…

You’re currently trying hard to build your business.

You've poured your energy, time, sweat (and maybe all your life) into it.

Money, too.

You've got products to sell, services to offer, customers to serve, and a reputation you're working hard to build.

Maybe you use Instagram to showcase your work.

Facebook to reach potential customers.

WhatsApp to answer questions, send prices, and even close deals.

But here's the thing…

"A Website Can Become Another Revenue Source 'If' Done Properly."

Think about it…

Your social media profiles can help people discover your business or even do business with you.

Your website can take things a step further.

It gives potential customers a place to learn more about your business, understand what you're offering, and figure out how to take the next step.

And the beautiful thing is, these channels don't have to compete with each other. They can work together.

For example…

Someone discovers your business on Instagram, visits your website to learn more about your products, and then contacts you on WhatsApp to place an order.

Or someone sees your Facebook ad, lands on a page explaining your offer, and requests a quote.

See how that works?

Your website becomes another part of the process of turning people who discover your business into paying customers.

But there's something else worth considering…

How much of your business's online presence depends on platforms you don't control?

Think about it.

Instagram could suspend your account tomorrow.

Facebook could restrict your page.

WhatsApp could ban your number, leaving you scrambling to figure out what happened.

And just like that, you could lose access to the audience you've spent years building, conversations with potential customers, and opportunities to make sales.

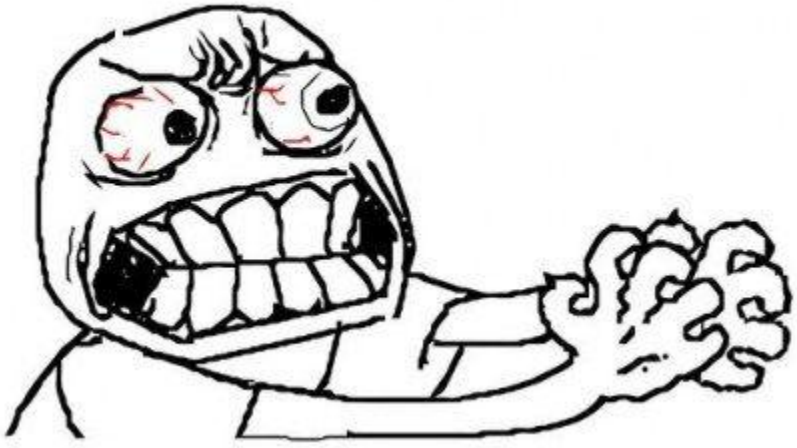

Oh dear God.

Imagine spending years building your Instagram page to 200,000 followers, only to wake up one morning and discover you've been banned.

All that time, effort, and money you've invested in building that audience…

And suddenly, you can't even access it.

That's enough to give a business owner sleepless nights.

But here's where having your own website can make a difference in your business…

Your website gives your business another place to establish its online presence, one where you're not entirely dependent on a social media platform deciding whether you can reach your audience.

You have considerably more control over how your business is presented, how your information is organized, and how visitors interact with what you offer.

And while your website still requires maintenance, hosting, and marketing, iit gives you an additional asset you control rather than relying entirely on platforms you don't.

Of course, I'm not saying you should abandon Instagram, Facebook, or WhatsApp.

Far from it.

Keep using the channels that help you attract customers and make sales.

Just don't overlook the value of having a website working alongside them.

Because the goal isn't to have a website simply for the sake of having one.

It's to give your business another useful asset that can help you attract customers, communicate your value, and make it easier for people to do business with you.

So no, we're not saying every business needs a website immediately.

We're simply asking you to consider whether one could make your business easier to run, create more opportunities, and give you greater control over your online presence.

And if the answer is yes, perhaps it's worth exploring what the right website could do for your business.

[LET'S DISCUSS YOUR PROJECT]

“Okay I’m Sold! But Can You Actually Build a Good-Looking Website For My Business?”

Ah. There it is.

The question we've been expecting.

After all that preaching about websites, you'd probably like to see whether we can build one ourselves.

Fair enough...

I mean, we could spend all day telling you how good we are at building websites, we’re not going to ask you to take our word for it.

But we'd rather show you.

At 247Kraft, we use modern development tools and AI to turn ideas into working digital products.

See What We've Built Over The Years.

Here's what the business does, what the website needed to accomplish, and what we built to meet those requirements.

[VISIT WEBSITE]

There you have it.

These projects give you a better idea of our capabilities than a paragraph full of claims ever could.

Every business has different requirements, and your website shouldn't be a carbon copy of someone else's.

[LET'S DISCUSS YOUR PROJECT]

This Is The Point Where You Ask “Why Choose 247Kraft”?

Let's be honest...

You have options. Plenty of them, actually.

You could hire one of those cheap freelance designers on Facebook Marketplace.

Sheesh.

Good luck with that. Lol

Or You could go with an agency that'll charge you half your life savings to build a simple one-page website.

You could even vibe code the whole thing yourself with AI.

That is, if you're comfortable with one of those fugly AI slop websites littering the internet.

Or better still, you can ask that 9-year-old genius cousin of yours who's apparently the next Elon Musk.

Your options are endless. Hey, I'm not here to tell you what to do with your money. 😂

And maybe you already have a website that needs a little (or a lot of) work.

We've helped multiple clients revamp their existing websites, and we'd be happy to help you give yours the same treatment.

But whether you're starting from scratch or looking to breathe new life into an existing website, we can't ask you not to consider your other options.

What we can do is show you why we believe 247Kraft is worth considering.

So, seriously...

Why should you choose 247Kraft?

The reason is simple.

Because you don't just need someone who can throw together a few pages and call it a website.

You need someone who understands that there's a business behind those pages.

Someone who can take that raw idea sitting in your head, understand what you're trying to achieve with your business, and turn it into a working website built around those goals.

So here's what we are proposing…

Before we build anything, we try to understand a few things about your business.

Who are your customers?

What are you selling?

What problems do you solve for them?

Why should they choose you over the alternatives?

And what do you want someone to do after visiting your website?

No, these aren't just questions we ask to fill out a project brief.

We just want to understand what you're trying to achieve before deciding how to approach the project.

Because the answers influence how we present your products and services, communicate your value, organize your pages, and guide visitors toward making an inquiry, requesting a quote, booking a service, or placing an order.

And yes, they influence the design, too.

The colours, layout, typography, images, and overall presentation should make sense for your business and the people you're trying to reach.

Because a website isn't just a collection of pretty pages.

It's something you're putting in front of potential customers.

And you want those people to see a business that looks credible and professional, understand what you offer and have a clear idea of what to do next.

That's the difference we're trying to make at 247Kraft.

We don't want you to walk away with just another website to maintain and renew every year.

We want to help you build something useful for your business. Something that supports your goals and has the potential to contribute to your growth over time.

And that's what we think you should be looking for when choosing someone to build your next website.

With this it can become an investment that contributes to your growth and, over time, helps pay for itself.

So, What Kind of Website Do You Have in Mind?

Business Websites

Give your business a home online where potential customers can learn about what you do, explore your services, and find out how to work with you.

Whether you're a consultant, a service provider, or a business looking to establish a stronger online presence, we'll work with you to build a website that represents your business professionally.

Landing Pages

Got a product, service, or offer you want to put in front of potential customers?

A dedicated landing page gives you room to make your case, explain the value of your offer, and guide visitors toward taking action.

Whether that action is requesting a quote, booking a call, signing up, or making a purchase, we'll build the page around what you're trying to achieve.

E-commerce Websites

Ready to sell your products online?

We can build an online store where customers can browse your products, learn about what you're selling, and place orders.

We'll discuss your product range, how you want customers to shop, and the features your store needs.

Already Have a Website? Let's Give It a Second Look.

Maybe your old website doesn't represent the quality of your business anymore.

Maybe it looks outdated, is difficult to navigate, or doesn't communicate what you actually offer.

Perhaps your previous designer did you dirty.

Or maybe the website is functional, but you've outgrown it and need something that better reflects where your business is today.

Whatever the case, you don't necessarily need to start from scratch.

Bring it to us.

We'll look at what you have, discuss what you'd like to improve, and work out whether a redesign or a more targeted set of changes makes the most sense.

And yes, that includes websites that need more than a fresh coat of paint.

Custom Websites and Web Applications

Got an idea that doesn't fit neatly into any of the categories above?

Maybe you need a particular feature, a custom workflow, or a web application built around the way your business operates.

Tell us what you're thinking.

We'll discuss what's possible and figure out the right approach for your project.

Or You're Not Quite Sure What You Need?

No problem.

You don't have to know all the technical details before talking to us.

Tell us about your business, what you're trying to accomplish, and what you have in mind.

We'll help you figure out what makes sense for your needs.

[LET'S TALK ABOUT YOUR PROJECT]

So, You See? Getting Your Next Website Built Is Simpler Than You Think…

1. Tell Us What You Need.

Fill out a short form about your business, the website you have in mind, your budget, and your timeline.

2. Let's Talk About Your Project.

You'll be redirected to WhatsApp, where we'll discuss your requirements, clarify the details, and talk about pricing and next steps.

3. We Get to Work.

Once we've agreed on the scope, pricing, and requirements, and you're ready to proceed, we'll start building your website.

4. Review Your Website.

You'll get the opportunity to review the work, share your feedback, and request the agreed-upon revisions.

5. Get Ready to Go Live.

Once everything is completed and approved, we'll help prepare your website for launch.

That's the process.

You tell us what you're trying to achieve. We'll work with you to turn it into a website.

[LET'S DISCUSS YOUR PROJECT]

Oh, You Are Still Scrolling…

Fair enough. 😂

I suppose I haven't quite convinced you yet.

Or maybe you're the kind of person who likes to examine every little detail before making a decision.

I can respect that.

After all, we're talking about your business and your hard-earned money. You shouldn't be throwing either around carelessly.

But here's something worth thinking about…

While you're thinking about whether your business needs a website, your business is still moving.

You're still looking for customers.

You're still trying to get more people to notice what you do.

You're still building your reputation, making sales, and figuring out how to take things to the next level.

And somewhere along the way, someone might hear about your business and decide to look you up.

What happens when they do?

Do they find a website that helps them understand what you offer, see what makes your business worth considering, and figure out how to work with you?

Or do they have to piece everything together from scattered social media posts, old pictures, and a WhatsApp conversation?

Of course, you might be doing perfectly fine without a website today.

But what if having the right one could make things a little easier for your business tomorrow?

That's worth considering, isn't it?

Think about it my dear friend…

And no, I'm not suggesting you rush into hiring us just because you've read this far.

I'm simply saying that if a website is something your business needs, there's little point in putting it off indefinitely while waiting for the perfect time.

You don't have to figure everything out on your own, either.

Tell us about your business, what you're trying to achieve, and the kind of website you have in mind.

We'll have a conversation, look at your requirements, and discuss what it would take to bring your idea to life.

So Let's start with a conversation.

Click the button below, tell us a little about your business, and let's see what we can build together.

[LET'S DISCUSS YOUR PROJECT]

And who knows? This conversation might be the beginning of something good for your business.

Anyhoo, i will see you in my whatsapp DM

A Few Questions You Might Have

How much does a website cost?

It depends on the type of website, the features you need, and the scope of the project.

Tell us what you have in mind, and we'll discuss a suitable quote.

How long does it take to build a website?

Timelines depend on the complexity of the project, the content required, and how quickly feedback and materials are provided.

We'll agree on a timeline before work begins.

I already have a website. Can you redesign it?

Yes. Tell us about your existing website, what you'd like to improve, and what isn't working for you. We'll discuss your options.

Will my website work on mobile phones?

Mobile responsiveness is part of our approach. Your website should adapt to different screen sizes and provide a usable experience across devices.

Do I need to know exactly what I want?

No. Having an idea helps, but you don't need to know the technical details.

Tell us about your business, your goals, and what you have in mind. We'll work through the requirements together.

Can you build an online store or a custom web application?

We can discuss both. Feasibility, timelines, and costs depend on the features and requirements involved.

Tell us about your idea so we can assess the project properly.

Can you build my website using AI?

Yes. We use AI and modern development tools as part of our workflow.

The goal isn't simply to generate a website. It's to build something that fits your business requirements.

How do I get started?

Click the button below and answer a few questions about your business and the website you need.

You'll then be redirected to WhatsApp, where we can discuss your project and the next steps.
